

Fatigue Management Policy

The Management considers the safety and health of its employees to be of paramount importance and will manage its facilities in such a manner to ensure, as is reasonable and practical, the following:

- The company will provide a place of work that is free from occupational hazards such as fatigue.
- The company will provide information, instruction, training and supervision for its employees.
- Management will consult and co-operate with its employees.
- The management, in co-operation with its employees, will implement, maintain and update a safe system of work, in regards to management of fatigue in the workplace.
- Performance of all work practices, are in such a manner which ensures the individuals safety.
- Ensure that acts or omissions do not place the health and safety of fellow workers at risk.

The management and staff will regularly meet to discuss the overall safety and health strategy of the company in managing fatigue in the work place.

This policy confirms the commitment of the company, to establishing a positive safety culture throughout all of its activities and creates a framework on which a safe system of work will be implemented.

Signed
Managing Director

Date 15/3/2016